Fees & Medical Aid Information Guide

Johannesburg North speech therapy & audiology

SpeakClearly confirms current fees and appointment availability directly with families before booking. Fees can vary according to the type and length of assessment or therapy, the clinical concern, report requirements and the support plan recommended after assessment.

How fees may be structured

- Initial assessment: may include case history, observation, discussion, informal tasks and formal testing where appropriate.
- Therapy sessions: frequency and session length depend on the individual plan.
- Reports or feedback: some written reports or additional professional liaison may be charged separately.
- Audiology or specialised assessment: the exact scope depends on the referral question.

Medical aid reimbursement

SpeakClearly provides invoices that families can submit to their medical aid for reimbursement. Benefits, tariff rules, savings-account use, authorisation requirements and reimbursement amounts differ between schemes and plans. SpeakClearly does not guarantee that a medical aid will reimburse a particular service or amount.

Before booking

- Ask SpeakClearly for the current fee for the appointment you are considering.
- Ask whether reports, school feedback or other add-on services are included or charged separately.
- Contact your medical aid directly if you need confirmation of available benefits or reimbursement rules.
- Keep your invoice and any required supporting documentation for your claim.

No tariff-alignment claim: This guide does not state that SpeakClearly charges Discovery Health, Medscheme or any other scheme's standard tariff. Current fees should be confirmed with the practice and benefits with your own medical aid.
